Anthropology
Investigates the links between social interactions, culture, and sustainability efforts.

Dr. Nicole Peterson
704-687-4077
npeterson@uncc.edu
UNC Charlotte Anthropologist Nicole D. Peterson examines how humans interact with their environments, and how we can create better socio-environmental systems. She has studied marine protected areas in Mexico and climate change adaptation in Ethiopian agriculture. Dr. Peterson currently focuses on Charlotte area food security and coordinates the Integrated Network for Social Sustainability to highlight the importance of social aspects of sustainability.

Dr. Nicole Peterson
704-687-4077
npeterson@uncc.edu